

If one of these three pictures does not work for your business then you may use your own high-resolution photo. We do request however, that you use a photo that has been taken by you personally, are royalty-free photos (meaning that you have paid a one-time fee in exchange for the right to use a photograph and there are many stock photo services that provide these type of images) or photos in which you have been granted permission by the photographer. Keep in mind that all of our photos are royalty-free.
